

February 2009

Congratulation to Michael Stibbard our February Trader of the Month. Michael started his trading career just over a year ago when he decided to start trading CFDs. After learning how to trade CFDs and blowing up his account Michael decided that he wasn't going to be defeated by trading and joined Traders International.

Attracted by the simplicity of trading eminis and the constant support of the Traders International team, he was confident that he had found his path to success. Michael now trades 3-4 hours per day in the pre-market and has a simple, profitable trading plan that nets him consistent profits.

Michael's advice to anyone looking at a trading career:

"Get your emotions in check. You really must think of trading as an investment as you definitely get out of it what you put in."
